

Our EDI Commitment

Barnardo's Voice and Influence Team is committed to creating safe, ethical, inclusive, and meaningful opportunities for young people to have their voice heard and acted upon across the charity.

Fundamental to this, aligned to our charity values, is a belief in the unique value and unique worth of all people, and that all people shall be treated fairly and have equal access to opportunities.

We recognise that in the spaces and communities we work with power is not held equally, and that individuals and groups have been and continue to be discriminated against, and oppressed.

We therefore affirm our determination to work in an anti-oppressive and anti-racist way, challenging and redressing the imbalance of power in all areas of our work.

We also recognise that this is a learning journey, and welcome challenge and support from colleagues across the charity to help us understand and continually do better.
